

"Pure Gospel"

Text: Galatians 1:1-12

God grant to each of us not only the gifts of grace, mercy, and peace, but a love for our neighbor that inspires us to share those same gifts also with those around us. Amen.

Dear Fellow Christians:

I don't know whether or not curiosity has ever actually killed any cats, but it sure has killed a lot of watches. I remember taking my watch apart when I was a kid. Never even got close to putting it back together. It was then I was first introduced to the saying, "There are only two kinds of people who take watches apart – jewelers and fools." I was no jeweler, so you do the math.

I'm not even sure what I was trying to accomplish. As I recall, the watch was running just fine. I guess I just wanted to know how it worked. What I discovered for sure is how it didn't work.

There are things like that in life, aren't there? Things that just aren't the same after something (or someone) messes with them. God's Word is like that – especially the gospel. You can't tinker with the gospel and pretend that it is the same gospel. You can't distort God's Word and pretend that it still is the Word of God. To change the gospel is to destroy it.

So it is on this Confirmation Sunday that we reexamine just how strong, and yet just how delicate, is that Word of God that we hold so dear. As our Confirmands this morning prepare to pledge their allegiance to God's Word, it is obviously critical that we and they understand just what that Word of God is, and what it is not. Our text gives us valuable information in that regard. That text is God's Word recorded in Paul's Epistle to the churches in the region of Galatia, the 1st Chapter:

^{ESV} Galatians 1:1-12 Paul, an apostle--not from men nor through man, but through Jesus Christ and God the Father, who raised him from the dead--² and all the brothers who are with me, To the churches of Galatia:³ ¶ Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ,⁴ who gave himself for our sins to deliver us from the present evil age, according to the will of our God and Father,⁵ to whom be the glory forever and ever. Amen.⁶ ¶ I am astonished that you are so quickly deserting him who called you in the grace of Christ and are turning to a different gospel--⁷ not that there is another one, but there are some who trouble you and want to distort the gospel of Christ.⁸ But even if we or an angel from heaven should preach to you a gospel contrary to the one we preached to you, let him be accursed.⁹ As we have said before, so now I say again: If anyone is preaching to you a gospel contrary to the one you received, let him be accursed.¹⁰ ¶ For am I now seeking the approval of man, or of God? Or am I trying to please man? If I were still trying to please man, I would not be a servant of Christ.¹¹ ¶ For I would have you know, brothers, that the gospel that was preached by me is not man's gospel.¹² For I did not receive it from any man, nor was I taught it, but I received it through a revelation of Jesus Christ.

This is God's word. It is therefore perfect, from first to last. How foolish it would be for us, once we come to recognize the source and value of these words, to ignore anything at all that they teach, or to seek to change the message when the original came from God himself. On the contrary, this is and by God's grace will remain our prayer: "Sanctify us by the truth, O Lord. Your word is truth!" Amen.

First a couple of seemingly random questions. Who invented the airplane? Most would say the Wright Brothers. It was actually a New Zealander named Richard Pearse. Who invented the automobile? Again, most Americans would say Henry Ford. Good Germans in attendance today might know it was Karl Benz, whose company later came to be known as Mercedes-Benz. Who invented the telescope? Most popular answer: Galileo. The real credit goes to a Dutch-German lens maker named Hans Lippershey. The light bulb? Not Albert Edison but a guy named Sir Humphrey Davy. Wilbur and Orville Wright, Ford, Galileo, Edison – all of these others became famous not so much for inventing, but for improving those inventions that were already in existence.

In fact even today it is difficult to think of a single thing in life that cannot be improved upon. Virtually everything man makes will eventually be improved. It will be made lighter, stronger, easier to operate, and more efficient.

It comes therefore as no big surprise that man naturally supposes that the same rule holds true for religion. Man naturally believes that religions can – and must – always be evolving and that they can always be improved. They believe this to be true, in part, because they believe that religions were created by man for man. Since man is also evolving – or so they also believe – religion must evolve with him.

Surprisingly enough, this profound misconception isn't just coming from those outside the Church, from unbelievers; it is coming from inside mainline denominations. Christian churches themselves are promoting a kind of religion that changes to "meet the changing (or felt) needs" of the people it seeks to serve. More accurately, they seek to create a religion that justifies whatever they desire and requires only what they are willing to provide.

Understand, first of all, exactly what has to happen to God for this idea to work. God has to be removed from his throne and placed at the foot of man. He has to be demoted from the creator of his own laws to the enforcer of the laws of man. Where God was once acknowledged as the One who has already decided what is right and what is wrong, now man decides such things and God is required to judge man according to man's ever-evolving standards, his ever-changing rules. Where God once condemned fornication, for example, man has now declared such conduct to be acceptable, and God is required not only to overlook that sin, but to look kindly on those who practice it.

The Christian faith, as it is revealed in the Bible, is perhaps the one thing in all the world that simply cannot be improved upon. As soon as man begins to tinker with any part of it, he destroys all.

If this sounds extreme to your ears, consider Paul's words in our text for this morning. Those of you who are familiar with Paul's Epistles will perhaps recall that Paul routinely began his letters with a rather lengthy section of encouragement and praise for those to whom the letter was addressed. This was even true when he wrote to problematic congregations like the church in Corinth. The one exception where he offered not one word of praise by way of introduction was our text for this morning – the opening verses of Paul's verbally inspired letter to the churches in Galatia. Notice in our text how he briefly greets his target audience, and then launches immediately into a rock-hard condemnation. Why? Listen again to verse 6: "I am astonished that you are so quickly deserting him who called you in the grace of Christ and are turning to a different gospel." So why the different approach? In Corinth, Christians were conducting their worship services in a disorderly manner. In Galatia they were actually distorting – and thereby destroying – the Christian faith itself. In fact Paul spells out in our text exactly what happens when you alter or distort God's word: "(You) are turning to a different gospel-- ⁷ not that there is another one, but there are some who trouble you and want to distort the gospel of Christ."

"Distorting the gospel of Christ"? That doesn't sound all that bad, does it? They were just tweaking it a little bit. Maybe customizing it to better suit their local needs. Listen again to how Paul addressed such "harmless" distortion: "Even if we or an angel from heaven should preach to you a gospel contrary to the one we preached to you, let him be accursed. ⁹ As we have said before, so now I say again: If anyone is preaching to you a gospel contrary to the one you received, let him be accursed."

This is the strongest language you will ever hear from Paul. So what were the people doing that was so bad? They were not brazenly denying the existence of Jesus; they were just adding a few good works to the mix of how someone is really saved – most notably: "Believe in Jesus AND be circumcised." Doesn't seem all that bad, does it? So why did Paul come down so hard on them?

Because adding to or subtracting from the gospel destroys it. Utterly.

How? Why? Because you really can't believe in Jesus Christ AND believe that something is required of, or must be provided by, man in order to be saved. The beauty of the gospel is that it tells us that absolutely nothing is required of man. Everything good is provided by Jesus Christ. Good thing that's how it is, isn't it, since man is utterly incapable of providing payment for even one sin? Every single individual who believes that he must add even one good thing before he can be saved destroys the Christian faith and condemns himself. Hear that again: Add any requirement at all to the Christian faith that man has to provide, and the gospel itself is destroyed and heaven is lost.

The folks that were distorting the gospel in Galatia were evidently justifying their actions with the argument that Paul was not necessarily wrong in what he had told them, but that he had inadvertently left some things out. Did you notice how Paul dealt with that argument? He began by giving his credentials: Paul, an apostle--not from men nor through man, but through Jesus Christ and God the Father, who raised him from the dead. He then concludes with these words: For I would have you know, brothers, that the gospel that was preached by me is not man's gospel. ¹² For I did not receive it from any man, nor was I taught it, but I received it through a revelation of Jesus Christ." We can trust God's Word precisely because it is God's Word. God doesn't make mistakes. But man does. In fact man has the power to corrupt everything he touches.

What then exactly is that truth of God that those smooth talkers in Galatia were perverting or distorting? It is simply this: human beings have nothing to offer God as payment for sin. We therefore have two options: never sin, or, if you do sin, find someone else to pay for that sin. Obviously every human being has sin – whole busloads of the stuff. In fact we were all born losers, since we were born not pure but shot through with sin. Every single one of us therefore needs an outside source of goodness to satisfy the demands of our sin. The gospel – the "good news" – is that that is exactly why Jesus Christ came to earth. It's what he came to do. By living the perfect life that the law demanded, and then giving up that life as the sacrifice or payment for sin, the Son of God himself provided for you and me what we could never provide for ourselves – the acceptable, complete payment for every single one of our sins. That payment is credited to you and me not by doing something; it is ours the moment the Holy Spirit causes us to believe that it is true – that Jesus did what he said he did.

This is the Christian faith, not "man must" but "Jesus has." In fact as soon as you add any "man must" you destroy "Jesus has." That is why Paul was so adamant in his rejection of every distortion of the truth of how man is saved. God's plan saves; no perversion of that plan ever could or ever will.

This is our great joy and confidence, and it is concerning this faith that our Confirmands this morning pledge their agreement and allegiance. This is their hope for salvation – God's plan, freely provided to each one of us in Jesus Christ. And yet as our Confirmands give expression of their faith this morning, and thereby confirm their trust in the faith in which they were baptized, you and I would do well to also recommit ourselves to this truth. More than that, we would also do well to fall on our knees daily before our God imploring him to preserve this gospel truth in our hearts. Every single generation possesses the terrible power to obscure the gospel by twisting or distorting it. Recommit yourselves therefore this morning to the pure, undistorted, saving truth of how we are saved. "God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

May God so bless our Confirmands, and may God so bless each of us.
Amen.

ESV 1 Kings 8:22-43 Then Solomon stood before the altar of the LORD in the presence of all the assembly of Israel and spread out his hands toward heaven, ²³ and said, "O LORD, God of Israel, there is no God like you, in heaven above or on earth beneath, keeping covenant and showing steadfast love to your servants who walk before you with all their heart, ²⁴ who have kept with your servant David my father what you declared to him. You spoke with your mouth, and with your hand have fulfilled it this day. ²⁷ ¶ "But will God indeed dwell on the earth? Behold, heaven and the highest heaven cannot contain you; how much less this house that I have built! ²⁸ Yet have regard to the prayer of your servant and to his plea, O LORD my God, listening to the cry and to the prayer that your servant prays before you this day, ²⁹ that your eyes may be open night and day toward this house, the place of which you have said, 'My name shall be there,' that you may listen to the prayer that your servant offers toward this place. ⁴¹ ¶ "Likewise, when a foreigner, who is not of your people Israel, comes from a far country for your name's sake ⁴² (for they shall hear of your great name and your mighty hand, and of your outstretched arm), when he comes and prays toward this house, ⁴³ hear in heaven your dwelling place and do according to all for which the foreigner calls to you, in order that all the peoples of the earth may know your name and fear you, as do your people Israel, and that they may know that this house that I have built is called by your name.

ESV Luke 7:1-10 After he had finished all his sayings in the hearing of the people, he entered Capernaum. ² Now a centurion had a servant who was sick and at the point of death, who was highly valued by him. ³ When the centurion heard about Jesus, he sent to him elders of the Jews, asking him to come and heal his servant. ⁴ And when they came to Jesus, they pleaded with him earnestly, saying, "He is worthy to have you do this for him, ⁵ for he loves our nation, and he is the one who built us our synagogue." ⁶ And Jesus went with them. When he was not far from the house, the centurion sent friends, saying to him, "Lord, do not trouble yourself, for I am not worthy to have you come under my roof. ⁷ Therefore I did not presume to come to you. But say the word, and let my servant be healed. ⁸ For I too am a man set under authority, with soldiers under me: and I say to one, 'Go,' and he goes; and to another, 'Come,' and he comes; and to my servant, 'Do this,' and he does it." ⁹ When Jesus heard these things, he marveled at him, and turning to the crowd that followed him, said, "I tell you, not even in Israel have I found such faith." ¹⁰ And when those who had been sent returned to the house, they found the servant well.

ESV Galatians 1:1-12 Paul, an apostle--not from men nor through man, but through Jesus Christ and God the Father, who raised him from the dead-- ² and all the brothers who are with me, To the churches of Galatia: ³ ¶ Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ, ⁴ who gave himself for our sins to deliver us from the present evil age, according to the will of our God and Father, ⁵ to whom be the glory forever and ever. Amen. ⁶ ¶ I am astonished that you are so quickly deserting him who called you in the grace of Christ and are turning to a different gospel-- ⁷ not that there is another one, but there are some who trouble you and want to distort the gospel of Christ. ⁸ But even if we or an angel from heaven should preach to you a gospel contrary to the one we preached to you, let him be accursed. ⁹ As we have said before, so now I say again: If anyone is preaching to you a gospel contrary to the one you received, let him be accursed. ¹⁰ ¶ For am I now seeking the approval of man, or of God? Or am I trying to please man? If I were still trying to please man, I would not be a servant of Christ. ¹¹ ¶ For I would have you know, brothers, that the gospel that was preached by me is not man's gospel. ¹² For I did not receive it from any man, nor was I taught it, but I received it through a revelation of Jesus Christ.

The Scripture Lessons: (Printed on the back page of this bulletin)

The First Lesson: (1 Kings 8:22-43) Our first Scripture reading tells of King Solomon's prayer as he dedicated the temple he had just built. This morning, on Confirmation Sunday, we apply this reading and his words to our youth – especially this morning our Confirmands. Confirmation is a mile-marker, not a final destination. That means it is a step on a very long journey. So we ask our God to keep his eyes turned to each of his children, night and day, and to hear our prayers and protect us until he calls us home.

Psalm 118 (Supplement page 29) (Brown Hymnal)

The Second Lesson: (Luke 7:1-10) We can ask for no greater gift from our God than strength of faith. The Bible teaches us that even a spark of faith is powerful enough to save, but God's children should want more than just a weak and faltering faith. This lesson speaks of the only time listed in the Bible where Jesus was astonished at the faith of a human being. God grant to each of us – and especially this morning the Church's youth – the sort of faith that simply takes God at his Word.

Welcome! - We warmly welcome any visitors worshipping with us this morning and invite you to join us each Sunday at this time. We are glad you are here! To our Visitors seeking Holy Communion – In obedience to God's Word, we practice "Close Communion." This practice stresses both our concern for others, not wanting anyone to receive the sacrament to their harm (1 Cor. 11:27-30) and the importance of unity in confession and faith (1 Cor. 10:16-17). For this reason we ask that anyone who has not established this unity through membership in a CLC congregation please meet with the pastor to discuss this Scriptural doctrine before communing. This is a practice that we follow out of love and concern for you, and out of obedience to God's Word, not in judgment of anyone's Christian faith.

Attendance – Sunday (32) Average (30)

This Week at St. Paul:

Today	-10:00 a.m.	– Worship Service w/communion
	-11:30 a.m.	– Fellowship Meal
Thurs-Sun	-10:00 a.m.	– CLC Convention in Eau Claire
Next Sunday	-10:00 a.m.	– Worship Service
	-11:00 a.m.	– Fellowship Hour
